FATHER WEEPS AFTER ATTACK

Claims He Did Not Mean To Injure Son, But Had Been Drinking

CANYON CITY, Colo., July 29.—(AP)—John Hull of Colorado Springs, held in solitary confinement in state prison because of threats of violence by fellow prisoners, was accused today by officers of having planned to throw his son under a train after beating him to death.

Hull retold the story of how he beat his son Corwin, 11, over the head with a board in the railroad yards here last week, but denied he tried to kill him because he was "raising sissy" or because he wanted to collect a $1,000 insurance policy.

Hull, who previously was quoted by officers as saying he attempted to beat his son to death because he dressed, on one occasion, in girl's clothing, told Chief Harper and Purcell today that he was drunk and worried last week when he attacked the boy. He denied he renewed a life insurance policy on the child's life several weeks ago as part of a murder plot.

As the officers examined Hull brought here for safekeeping because of fear of mob violence at Colorado Springs Corwin was in a critical condition in a Colorado Springs hospital but physicians said he has a chance to recover. He had 11 wounds on his head and body.

Hull told the officers today he was worried because his second wife had left him but denied she told him he would have to send Corwin away before she would return to him. The boy is Hull's child by a previous marriage. His mother is dead.

"My only income when I renewed the life insurance policy on the boy was $24 a month and I thought I just better renew the policy," he said.

Sobbing in his solitary cell at the state penitentiary at Canon City, John Hull tonight scrawled a tear-stained note to Corwin, told him he loved him, promised him he would "never take another drink," and urged the boy to tell police "the whole story."

Police Chief H. D. Harper, of Colorado Springs, brought the note here tonight but said he would not disclose its full content until he had given it to the suffering boy in the Bethel hospital here.

SHRINKING MAN IS ON RECOVERY ROAD

MINNEAPOLIS, July 29.—(AP)—Hans Nelson, 52, the "shrinking man" who underwent an operation for the removal of over-active parathyroid glands in the hope it would halt the shrinking process which had taken 10½ inches from his stature, today was reported by the University hospital to be in "satisfactory condition."

He is "up and around" at the hospital, and is expected to return home in a few days.

Surgeons who performed the operation expressed no hope the operation would restore Nelson's lost height. Nelson is a painter by trade. The "shrinkage" occurred over a 13-year period.

ICE MEN ORDERED TO QUIT USING WHISTLE

LOAN COMPANY FILES SUIT AGAINST PIMA

The Morris plan loan company yesterday filed suit against Pima county for $143.60 in taxes allegedly illegally assessed and collected. The company says the county charged it taxes on the proportionate share of the company capital stock in relation to the amount of business done in Pima county by the company compared with business in other places.

The complaint points out that 710 shares of stock are held by persons not residents of Arizona and that these shares should be considered in handling the taxes. The $143.60 refund is therefore demanded in the suit.

KIDNAP LAWYER GIVEN 10 YEARS

Laska to Appeal, Says Innocent of Anything But Legal Practice

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 29.—(AP)—Jump Laska, prominent criminal defender of kidnapers, received 10 years today for conspiracy in the $200,000 abduction of Charles F. Urschel, oil millionaire.

Bitterly he sputtered a vehement denial later of reports he said he has heard that he might try suicide to avoid prison.

"I know people are saying I may 'blow my top,' the frail attorney from Denver said. Then he demanded:

"But you never heard of a Jew killing himself, did you?"

Laska, whose conviction was hailed by the government as a victory in the drive against lawyers who defend kidnapers, protested tearfully. An appeal was filed immediately.

Asserts Innocence

"Ten years!" he cried. "They gave me 10 years for taking a fee to defend a man they shot out up just like I was a common criminal instead of an attorney who has practiced his profession 27 years.

"It's awful . . . terrible . . . to treat an innocent man like that."

Laska was the 20th person to be sentenced by Federal Judge Edgar S. Vaught for various roles in the machine-gun abduction of the Oklahoma City oil man July 22, 1933. Urschel was returned unharmed. Most of the ransom was recovered.

Conviction of Laska was based on testimony by Edward Feldman and his mother, Clara Feldman, that the Denver attorney accepted from them $10,000 in "hot ransom cash" to defend Albert Bates, convicted kidnaper, later directing disposal of the remainder of Bates' $75,000 share of the booty.

Suspended Sentences

Feldman and his mother received five-year sentences, suspended, for their confessed part in the conspiracy.

Protesting his innocence, Laska stood up before Judge Vaught after motion for a new trial had been overruled.

With arms outspread, he raised a tear-streaked face.

"Judge, all I can say is—be reasonable," he pleaded. "An innocent man is going to be sentenced."

"It is not pleasant for me to sentence an attorney," said Judge Vaught. "On the other hand, an offense has been committed. Someone must pay for it."

After pronouncing sentence, the judge approved a $10,000 appeal bond.

U. A. AGGIE MEN TO ATTEND CONFERENCE

Representatives from the University of Arizona will attend two regional agricultural conferences that have been called by Henry A. Wallace, United States secretary of agriculture, it was announced yesterday by Dr. H. L. Shantz.

The first meeting will be at Corvallis, Ore., August 14, 15 and 16 and is this will go Dr. George W. Barr, extension economist, and William A. Steenbergen, instructor in agricultural engineering in the college of agriculture.

Secretary Wallace, in his communication to Dr. Shantz, directs attention to the success of the regional conferences held throughout the United States in November, 1934, at which all agricultural programs and policies were discussed. Because of the helpfulness of those, Wallace is calling the August meetings, at which will gather representatives of the various land grant colleges within the various regions.

Sessions will consist of two divisions: a technical three-day session primarily for those interested in or working on research problems, and general three-day sessions at which reports on the technical work will be given. Every phase of national agricultural work will be gone into including the Jones-Bankhead act, under which additional appropriations to land grant colleges permit certain expansions of work.

HITLER IS ARTIST IN WATER COLORS

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 29.—A cowering neo-Aryan, knocked into a gutter by a beefy storm trooper of Herr Hitler's regime would have difficulty in thinking of the celebrated painter in the gentle role of a water colorist, mooning about the countryside in search of subjects to paint. But so would a Christian martyr find it hard to comprehend the musical side of the Emperor Nero. Yet these tyrannical figures which loom so large in the passionate histories of the world are often strange evolutions.

Returned travelers from Germany are telling of an exhibition of paintings executed by Adolf Hitler as a young man before the World war. Many newspaper reports have made reference to Hitler as a painter and, whether deliberately or not, have given the plain impression that he was a sign painter. The fact is that the German chancellor and dictator upon whose head so much blood ties, is an artist of unquestioned talent. At least he was, before the fever of domination lifted him to the position of practical absolutism he now occupies.

MOUER CONFERS WITH PRESIDENT

Governor Leaves Capital For Arizona Today; Misses Hopkins

WASHINGTON, July 29.—(AP)—Governor R. B. Moeur had a "highly satisfactory" talk with President Roosevelt today, missed out on plans to confer with Rexford Guy Tugwell and Harry L. Hopkins and then announced he was returning to Arizona tomorrow.

Governor Moeur said he had conferred with the president "about getting some projects for Arizona" and that they had also discussed a proposal for development of the lower Gila valley as a resettlement project.

From the White House the Arizona executive went to the offices of Works Progress Administrator Hopkins only to find he was out of town. The governor also had intended calling on Tugwell, the resettlement administrator, but discovered at the last moment he likewise was not available.

"Highly Satisfactory"

"My talk with Mr. Roosevelt was highly satisfactory," Governor Moeur said after spending nearly an hour in the executive offices.

Accompanying him were Dr. R. H. Ross, director of agricultural extension in Arizona; James R. Moore, special Arizona assistant attorney general in charge of Colorado river matters, and T. H. O'Brien, chairman of Arizona's state board of public welfare.

"We talked about a lot of things. Not mostly about getting some projects for Arizona," the governor stated, adding he told Mr. Roosevelt "We can use a lot of them."

Moeur said during their discussion of the Gila valley project they informed the president 630,000 acres of land were available for use there and that it could "easily support an additional 15,000 persons."

NO WORK, NO RELIEF AFTER AUGUST 15TH

PHOENIX, July 29.—(AP)—Officials of the works progress administration said today that by August 15 the federal government's ultimatum of "no work, no relief" would be in effect.

The task of transferring persons able to work from the federal emergency relief administration rolls to the works progress administration is under way.

Estimates disclosed that 16,000 of the 20,000 persons on relief in Arizona can be transferred to the WPA to find employment on its projects, while 4,000 persons on relief will have to be cared for by the state and federal government as "unemployables" unable to work.

Miss Florence M. Warner, FERA administrator, announced that Coconino and a number of other counties have certified persons able to work in preparation for the WPA program.
